CLOTHING.

C. D. B. FISK & CO.,

ONE PRICE CLOTHIERS, UNDER PREBLE HOUSE, PORTLAND, MAINE,

OF
MEN'S, BOYS' AND CHILDREN'S CLOTHING!

"Bring candid eyes to the perusal of men's works and let not zoilism or detraction blast well intended labor."

ENCOURAGING NEWS.
The intelligence received from every quarter is of the most encouraging kind, and indicates a general revival. An era of commercial and industrial prosperity is confidently looked forward to, merchandise of every description is rapidly advancing in prices and far better still wages are gradually being increased, which will enable the laboring classes to indulge in many necessities, which close economy has deprived them of. We rejoice with the people; once more we wish to hear the ponderous stroke of the trip hammer, the busy hum of the spindles, and the buzz of numerous saws, all indicating plenty.

WHERE TO BUY.
The great desideratum in expending money is to know where to get the most serviceable and satisfactory articles for the smallest consideration. Ask a novice and he will advise you to make your purchases anywhere that you may find the goods required, regardless of the ability of the parties to return you a fair equivalent for your money,—consult a man of observation and he will direct you to the most extensive establishment in your vicinity, where a large and varied stock will be found to meet the requirements of all classes of trade, and where business is done on the ONE PRICE, QUICK SALES and SMALL PROFIT principle. Such is FISK & CO.'S Establishment.

HOLIDAY PRESENTS.
In the selection of gifts a due regard for surrounding circumstances, condition in life and present wants should be taken in consideration. A package of candy or a jumping jack to a shoeless child would be as much out of place as an elepuant for a baby. In selecting your Holiday Gifts, give what will be of the most service as well as lasting and economical. For children, nothing gives more pleasure than nice, nobby clothing; a neat Ulster or Overcoat for the little ones would undoubtedly prove most satisfactory.

A MERRY CHRISTMAS & HAPPY NEW YEAR!
We desire to embrace this opportunity to extend the compliments of the season and also express our thanks to our numerous patrons who have sustained and encouraged us by their liberal patronage during the past five years. The gradual increase in our business has clearly demonstrated the fact to our entire satisfaction that our efforts to please the public have been eminently successful. In the future as well as in the past we shall ever have in view that a pleased customer will call again.

READ! REFLECT! PONDER!

THE PRESS.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, DEC. 17.

We do not read anonymous letters and communications. The name and address of the writer are in all cases indispensable, not necessarily for publication but as a guaranty of good faith.

We cannot undertake to return or preserve communications that are not used.

EVERY regular attaché of the PRESS is furnished with a Card certificate signed by Stanley T. Pullen, Editor. All railway, steamboat and hote managers will confer a favor upon us by demanding credentials of every person claiming to represent our journal.

The Theft and its Punishment.

Late despatches from Augusta go to confirm the reports of yesterday that the Governor and the Executive Council, taking advantage of immaterial errors in the returns, putting the hardest construction upon those laws which can be strained to give color of legality to their conduct, disregarding or impudently and recklessly declaring unconstitutional the statutes which make against their scheme, and in defiance of the will of the voters of Maine expressed in the ordinary way at the polls, have refused enough certificates to Republican members-elect and given enough to defeated fusion candidates to throw the control of the Legislature and the choice of Governor into the hands of the Democratic-Greenback combination.

In this matter the Republican party whose Legislative candidates having a majority of votes are deprived of their seats, has a right to complain. But the wrong done to it is also a wrong done to the voters of the State; for the wish of the majority has been disregarded and their choice ignored. No attention has been paid to the popular will, and the foundation principle of government by the people impudently disregarded. It is a wrong that every well-meaning citizen of the State cannot help taking home to himself. Candid and patriotic men, to whatever political organization they belong, must feel aggrieved at this obvious usurpation, and will take the earliest opportunity to rebuke it.

That these are the views taken by men outside of the political party which has been defrauded of control of the State is evident from the interviews with leading Democrats published in our local columns. The Hon. William L. Putnam, whose fidelity to the old-time principles of the Democratic party no one will presume to question, is especially clear and emphatic in his opinion. The reported action of the Governor and Council is, he says, neither according to law nor justice; and, he adds, though that body in no sense represents the Democratic party, yet the National Democracy must bear the blame. The remedy he points out will, we are persuaded, commend itself to candid men throughout the State as the proper means of correction. He believes it to be the duty of every citizen of Maine, whatever his position on National matters, who desires henceforth fair dealings in the matter of elections, to unite with the Republican party in this State for the purpose of crushing out the coalition which now controls the State government. Of that belief a great majority of the people of Maine will be found next September.

"Whether our Maine returning board [governor and council] intend to follow the brilliant example of their Louisiana prototype, remains to be seen. There are, however, rumors in the air that it meditates doing so, and proposes to accomplish its coup d'etat by withholding certificates from enough Democratic and Greenback members elect to the Legislature, to give the Republicans the House in the organization, and then to elect Connor and fill the State offices before the contested seats in the House are settled.—Maine Standard, Oct. 11, 1878.

A SPECIAL despatch from Washington says that Congressman Reed, in speaking of the news from Maine, said that he hardly dared to contemplate the result. He feared it meant trouble ahead. He thought the plot could not permanently succeed without there being very serious trouble, and he feared that the action of the Democrats in Maine, which was certain to be followed by a choice of Democratic Presidential electors, was but a forerunner of a revolutionary programme, determined on by the Democrats of the House and Senate there, to count out the Republican President at all hazards.

EDWARD A. GIBBS, blatherskite and defeated fusion candidate for Senator, has procured and publishes an affidavit from an imbecile and utterly irresponsible witness in Bridgton who says he was bribed to vote the Republican ticket. It is sworn to before Mr. Daniel W. Proctor. Mr. Gibbs vigorously and floridly describes the affidavit as "a scene over which the devil in hell would rejoice and the Goddess of Liberty weep." His sympathies seem to be with the devil for his letter has an exultant tone.

If the existence of political parties is necessary in a republic like ours—the party out of power to keep watch over the party in power, and to expose its errors and malpractices with a view to their correction—then prompt obedience to the popular will, without any effort to defeat or to retard its operation, is a duty imposed by the law of honesty as well as by the law of the land, and the spirit of our institutions."—Maine Standard, Oct. 11, 1878.

THE Argus tries to convey the impression that the exhibition of the Washington County returns disproves the charges made by Mr. Rounds. It does no such thing. It only shows that the plotters did not dare use the substituted returns after the threatened exposure. When the Argus says Mr. Rounds abandoned the charges it is guilty of misrepresentation. The Council have not dared to give him the hearing he asked.

The people of Maine cannot be defrauded of their political rights. The country has been cheated out of the Presidency. The State of Maine cannot be swindled in a similar way. They know their rights and dare to maintain them. The party that invokes the wind will reap the whirlwind."—Maine Standard, Oct. 11, 1878.

THE Skowhegan Republican majority of four hundred is to be thrown out because the names on the Republican ballots were printed in double columns. The manner of printing is claimed to be "a distinguishing mark." For that matter the Republican ticket generally was more distinguished than the other. Perhaps that is the reason the Legislative majority is overthrown.

LET it be remembered that the Republicans had a clear majority on their Legislative ticket and that the choice of the majority of the people of Maine for members of the House and Senate has been disregarded by the Governor and Council.

THE Associated Press agents at Augusta seem to have been asleep for the last two days. Are they exhausted with their efforts in sending protests and replies? Or do they decline to be the bearers of bad news?

IT is reported that Gov. Garcelon calls those who thought he would do the honest thing in the canvassing of votes, "presumptuous young men." They were certainly deluded men.

THE Argus has discovered "a surprising epidemic of blundering by Republican election officials." It has extended to the fusion leaders, as they will find to their sorrow.

PILLSBURY Senator, Smith Governor, Garcelon Superintendent of the Insane Hospital. These make a pretty trio.

THE three merry rogues have cracked the crib, but the job has been done with neither neatness nor dispatch.

IT was the chairman of the Democratic State Committee, wasn't it, who first proposed the steal?

IT is to be presumed that Gov. Garcelon has got over his excitement. The people are just entering upon theirs.

THE thing that Gov. Garcelon called an insult to his honor has been done, and apparently with his aid.

MEN have before now got mad enough to kill, but not mad enough to steal.

DID Councillor Chase lend his aid to the disfranchisement of Portland?

How Far Bells may be Heard.

[Scientific American.]

In a hilly locality a bell will not be heard half as far as if the land were level, or nearly so. A bell will be heard a great deal further lengthways of a valley than over the hills at the sides. It is frequently the case that bell-rooms are lower than the surrounding buildings and trees, and these obstructions break the sound and prevent its free passage to a distance. It is frequently the case, too, that towers have small windows and openings, with the lower boards so close together as to almost box up the sound. In cities the noise of steam and horse cars, manufacturing establishments, carriages and carts rattling over the pavements, etc., is so great, that bells are not expected to be heard at any considerable distance, and this is the reason why, in all cities, several bells are used for fire alarm purposes, it being impossible for one bell, no matter how large it may be, to be heard above the thousand and one noises incident to every large place. The largest bell ever made in this country weighed 22,000 pounds, and before it was fractured, hung on the City Hall in New York. On one or two occasions this bell was heard up the Hudson river 13 miles, in the night, when the city was comparatively quiet. Water is a good conductor of sound, and aided materially in making the bell heard as above mentioned. It is a great mistake to suppose that bells can be heard in proportion to their weight; that is, that a bell of 2000 pounds will be heard twice as far as a bell of 1000 pounds. This is not so, for the reason that the larger bell does not possess anything like twice the resonant surface of the smaller one. What is gained and admired in the larger bell is its deep majestic, dignified tone, which it is impossible to secure in the smaller one, the weight of a bell invariably governing its tone. A bell of 100 or 200 pounds, in an open belfry, on a schoolhouse or factory in the country, is frequently heard at a long distance, out of all proportion, apparently, to one of 1000 pounds in a church tower near by; and instances of this kind frequently cause no little comment in the way of comparison. The reason for this is, that the small bell has a sharp, shrill, penetrating sound, that must, of necessity, be heard a great deal farther in proportion to its weight, than the low, mellow, "church going" sound of the church bell. The same principle applies to the whistle of a locomotive, and it is heard a long distance simply because its tone is shrill and penetrating. When hung stationary and struck, or tolled, bells will not be heard, as a rule, half as far as when swung. The swinging motion throws the mouth of the bell up, and not only carries the sound off, but imparts to it a richness that is always absent when the bell is at rest and struck. A great deal is to be gained by ringing a bell properly, throwing the mouth well up, and not lazily jingling it. It is not physical strength that is required in ringing a bell so much as "getting the knack" of catching the rope just right, particularly on the second "down pull." The windows in the tower should be as open as possible, and the tower should be ceiled just above the windows.

The Dress of the Moor.

[From "Morocco," by Edmond de Amicis.]

I am ashamed when I pass a handsome Moor in gala dress. I compare my ugly hat with his large muslin turban, my short jacket with his ample white or rose-colored caftan—the meanness, in short, of my black and gray garments with the whiteness, the amplitude, the graceful, dignified simplicity of his—and it seems that I look like a black beetle beside a butterfly. I stand sometimes at my window in contemplation before a portion of a pair of crimson drawers and gold-colored slippers, appearing from behind a column in the square below, and find so much pleasure in it that I cannot cease from gazing. More than anything else I admire and envy the caic, that long piece of snow-white wool or silk with transparent stripes which is twisted round the turban, falls down between the shoulders, is passed around the waist, and thrown up over one shoulder, whence it descends to the feet, softly veiling the rich colors of the dress beneath, and at every breath of wind swelling, quivering, floating, seeming to glow in the sun's rays, and giving to the whole person a vaporous and visionary aspect. No one who has not seen it can imagine to what a point the Arab carries the art of lying down. In corners where we should be embarrassed to place a bag of rags or a bundle of straw, he disposes of himself as upon a bed of down. He adapts himself upon the wall like a bas-relief, and flattens out upon the ground until he looks like a sheet spread out to dry. He will assume the form of a ball, a cube, or a monster without arms, legs or head; so that the streets and squares look like battle-fields strewn with corpses and mutilated trunks of men. The greater part having nothing on but a simple white mantle—but what a variety there is among them! Some wear it open, some closed, some drawn on one side, some folded over the shoulder, some tightly wrapped, some loosely floating, but always with an air; varied by picturesque folds, falling in easy but severe lines, as if they were posing for an artist. Every one of them might pass for a Roman Senator. This very morning our artist discovered a marvellous Marcus Brutus in the midst of a group of Bedouins. But if one is not accustomed to wear it, the face is not sufficient to enoble the folds of the mantle. Some of us brought them for the journey, and tried them on, and we looked like so many convalescents wrapped in bathing-sheets. I have not yet seen among the Arabs a hunchback, or a lame man, or a rickety man, but many without a nose and without an eye, one or both, and the greater part of these with the empty orbit—a sight which made me shiver when I thought that possibly the globe had been torn out in virtue of the lex talionis, which is in vigor in the empire. But there is no ridiculous ugliness among these strange and terrible figures. The flowing, ample vesture conceals all small defects, as the common gravity and the dark bronzed skin conceal the difference of age. In consequence of which one encounters at every step men of an indefinable age, of whom one cannot guess whether they are old or young; and if you judge them old, a lightening smile reveals their youth; and if you think them young, the hood falls back and betrays the gray locks of age.

Salutations.

Naturally, we turn to the East for the origin of most of our customs, and I cannot do better, I think, than begin with the salutations of those Eastern countries of which we have the earliest knowledge. A large, if not the largest class of salutations can be traced to intercession. The deeply religious character of the Oriental shows itself specially in their salutations. The Hebrew word, barak, "to bless," had all the meaning of saluting, welcoming, and bidding adieu, the person spoken to being in each case commended to God. "Blessed be thou of the Lord;" "The Lord be with thee;" "And Jacob blessed Pharaoh, and went out from before him;" are instances which illustrate the use of the word. They are paralleled by the Arabian, "God grant thee His favors," "May God strengthen your mornings," "May your mornings be good;" by the Persian, "I make prayers for thy greatness" and by the Ottoman, "Be under the guard of God," "My prayers are for thee," "Forget me not in thy prayers." And we cannot be surprised that this kind of salutation is found to exist in some shape or other among all national greetings. Our religion has come from the East and some of their religious salutations still survive; as, for example, in the Esthonian "God guide you," the "Adieu" of the French, the "Go with God, Señor," of Spain, and our "God be with ye," corrupted into "Good-bye." And here it may be remarked, in passing, that the obviously religious phrases have been preserved by nations in a sense less distinctly religious than the English, while they have been lost or changed among ourselves. Has the closer intimacy of the continent with Roman Catholicism produced an effect upon outward expression, or is the change due to our greater reverence for sacred names—a reverence, of course, often merely Pharisaic, but which has led us, as it led the later Hebrews, to shrink from uttering the actual name of the Deity, and either to corrupt it as in "God-by" or eliminate it as in "Mercy me," "Save you,

In Aroostook they will give certificates to John H. Brown in place of Frank C. Nickerson in district No. 7, and to Alfred Cushman in place of John Burnham.

In Cumberland there are no changes excepting Portland.

Fusionists.....20
Republicans.....11

The petty meanness of the Council in refusing to allow reporters of any papers but those which are ready to apologise for and even praise the theft, to see the report makes it impossible for us to publish a full list of the House this morning. In most of the cases where representatives have been thrown out the pretexts have already been made public. Perhaps the most outrageous case is that of Skowhegan where a Republican who had nearly four hundred majority is thrown out and his seat given to the opposition candidate simply because the Republican ballots were printed in double columns. The case of the Exeter-Garland District is scarcely less glaring. The vote stood in Exeter, F. W. Hill, 220; G. S. Hill, 146. In Garland, George S. Hill, 211; Francis W. Hill, 131. G. S. Hill and George S. Hill were the same person and the Republican candidate, and his vote in both towns was 357. F. W. Hill and Francis W. Hill were one and the same person, likewise the Democratic candidate, and his vote in both towns was 351. So the Republican candidate had a majority of 6 votes. But the Governor and Council ignoring the law of 1877, in order to get the Democrat into the Legislature, declares there were four separate candidates voted for, and give the certificate to F. W. Hill, who they say appears to be elected. The conundrum is proposed how the Governor and Council can get along with giving the certificate to F. W. Hill, while they declare that Francis W. Hill—the same person—is not elected.

At the earnest solicitation of Pillsbury (so it is said) there were no changes made in Kennebec county. Certificates will be issued to the candidates who "appear" to be elected by the returns, according to a somewhat neglected provision of the constitution of this state, which has made its only appearance this season in the case of this county. As the Council would do nothing that is not according to (their) law, I presume awful Fogg has discovered some statute which is constitutional, that directs that this plain provision of the constitution be applied to Kennebec county only. The real reason, however, is that Pillsbury hadn't the courage to permit them to steal any members so near his home. He says that that county is so strongly Republican that to change the result would be to cause needless irritation. Pillsbury seems to have no fear of the irritation that this gigantic crime of crimes will cause in other sections of the state.

The Belfast certificate was not withheld, as the same reason that would deprive Dr. Brooks of his certificate would also prevent the issuing of one to Dr. Bradbury of Norway, they both being examining surgeons in the pension office. So this will reduce the number of vacancies in the House.

A Movement to Test the Constitutionality of the Act of 1877.

The following is a copy of the petition to Benjamin W. Harriman, Esq., Representative elect from the Readfield, Mount Vernon and Vienna class, circulating among the voters of that district for signatures:

Whereas, The Governor and Council in their canvass of the votes cast for Senators and Representatives at the last state election have refused to execute a law of the state on the plea that they are advised that it is unconstitutional.

And, whereas, if the executive department may refuse to execute one law they may also refuse to execute all laws until they have been formally declared constitutional, thus opening the way for the greatest usurpation and utterly reversing the universal law of republics that the executive is bound to execute all laws until they are declared unconstitutional;

And, whereas, the only body that can lawfully and finally declare a law unconstitutional is the Supreme Judicial Court;

And, whereas, the Governor and Council neglected to call upon the court for their advice and decision as to said law, as it was their privilege to do;

Therefore, we, the undersigned, voters of the town of Readfield, respectfully request you, as the rightful Representative-elect from this district, that you co-operate with all those who were rightfully elected Senators and Representatives as shown by the legal records of the late election, made according to law by the respective cities, towns and plantations of the state, in order that all questions relating to the legality of the canvass by the Governor and Council of the votes cast at the last state election for Senators and Representatives, may, if possible, directly or indirectly, be brought before the Supreme Judicial Court for their decision.

POLYGAMY IN UTAH.

Delegate Cannon Defends His Constituents and Denies that the Laws Can be Made Effective.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—Delegate Cannon of Utah, respecting the anti-polygamy laws and the bills on that subject introduced in the house by Mr. Willits of Michigan, says that he does not believe those laws can ever be made effective. "The truth is," said he, "those laws are not broad enough. They are not aimed at immorality in general, but at our people in particular. In Utah we have judges on the bench, prosecuting attorneys and grand petit jurors who are well known to be libertines. They who debauch women are called upon to prosecute, try and punish us for the crime of getting married." Mr. Cannon makes the extraordinary statement that the desire to disfranchise the Mormons is born of a hope among impecunious people in Utah that they will be able to control the offices and disburse the taxes of Utah if the scheme of disfranchisement is carried out. Mr. Cannon denies that he has recently been married to a fifth wife, and says that it would be contrary to all precedent for the house of representatives to take any action toward expelling him. If he has offended against the laws he is to be tried by the laws and not Congress. He refers approvingly to the ground taken by General Butler some years ago, when it was proposed to expel several members of the house for their connection with the Credit Mobilier speculations. Gen. Butler then declared that the people of a congressional district might send a known thief to Congress if they liked, and that the House would have no right to expel him. The people of Utah elected Mr. Cannon knowing him to be a polygamist, and that gentleman says the House has nothing to do with that fact.

The National Republican Committee.

The principal topic of conversation at hotels and elsewhere to-night is the probably action of the National Republican Committee to-morrow. The opinion seems to prevail that Senator Cameron will be elected chairman, although Representative Frye undoubtedly has considerable following. The question is if the convention will be held seems conclusively settled in favor of Chicago.

Later—Chandler and Frye, on hearing that Cameron would have a place on the committee, announced that they would not contest the chairmanship with him.

AFGHANISTAN.

The British Menaced by 30,000 Afghans.

THE GRAVITY OF THE SITUATION ADMITTED.

LONDON, Dec. 16.—The Times says the news from Afghanistan indicate beyond a doubt that a crisis has been reached in military operations in that country more important than any through which we have yet passed since the commencement of the invasion last year. Happily the position we occupy and the resources at our disposal appear to render us better able to meet this emergency than any which preceded it, but our strength is being tested more severely than hitherto.

CALCUTTA, Dec. 16.—Gen. Roberts telegraphs from Cabul that one mountain gun was lost during Sunday's engagement. Roberts estimates the number of the enemy at 30,000. The fire, he says, was severe. He is confident of his ability to restore British authority in Afghanistan, but says reinforcements are necessary to enable him to act vigorously.

LONDON, Dec. 16.—The statement that the Indian government had asked for a reinforcement of 5000 men immediately is probably untrue, as the Viceroy of India telegraphed yesterday that he had ample forces.

The correspondent of the Times at Cabul telegraphs on the 15th inst. as follows: The troops are in excellent spirits and ready for any work. The British loss in various affairs during the past week was 42 men killed, including 6 officers, and 76 wounded, including 9 officers. The military contributor to the Times writes as follows: "The temporary success of Mahomed Jan over Gen. Massy, coupled with the evacuation of the position won at such a cost the 13th inst., has evidently given the rising an impetus it will need all our strength to overcome. The Shirpur Cantonments, which lie two miles north of Cabul, are intrenched and contain several months' supplies. The troops are in good health, and though it is humiliating to feel that at this moment the Afghans have the upper hand, that our army of occupation is besieged, that Cabul has passed from our hands and its governorship transferred to Mahomed Jan, yet there is no cause for alarm. There is many a man inside that entrenchment who has faced heavier odds than those at present against him, and though it may be unpleasant to learn that the Afghans hate us now with the undying hatred they exhibited in 1862, there is no reason to feel any apprehension of a repetition of the disgrace which overtook us then."

CABUL, Dec. 15.—The most difficult position of the enemy was gallantly carried yesterday. Later in the day the British troops lost the position which they had before taken.

SOUTH AMERICA.

The Allies Repulsed by the Chilian.

LIMA, Nov. 25.—Gen. Buenitia attacked the Chilian army on the 19th at San Francisco on the railway from Pisagua, and the allies were forced to retire with a very heavy loss. The Chilians were entrenched and had ample time to improve the natural advantages offered by their position.

Four thousand Bolivians under Gen. Daza refused to proceed to the relief of the Peruvians, and it is feared trouble may ensue between the two powers. Since the capture of the Huascar, Bolivian ardor has cooled. The gun boat Pelcomayo has been captured by a Chilian iron clad.

Portland Daily Wholesale Market.

PORTLAND, Dec. 16.

The markets generally are quiet with only a moderate trade. There is a better feeling in Sugar with an improved demand; we quote granulated at 9¾c and Extra C at 9¼c. The New York market for Sugar is decidedly firmer at an advance. Flour and Grain is steady and unchanged. The Liverpool market for Wheat is quiet but steady, and Corn easier. Cargoes on the passage for the United Kingdom, port of call and direct ports of flour and wheat 740,000, of corn 180,000 centals.

A Grand Scheme.

THE DRY DOCK PROPERTY TO BE TRANSFORMED.

New Elevators to be Erected, Wharves, Storehouses, and a Grand Railroad Junction Built.

In Saturday morning's issue we published an interview between Sir Hugh Allan and a Halifax reporter, in which Sir Hugh expressed the opinion that Halifax never could be the winter port of Canada until her business men bestirred themselves and afforded proper facilities. Yesterday we mentioned that Mr. Alexander, so long agent of the Cunard Line of steamers at Boston, had made arrangements for a splendid line of steamers which would possibly run to Boston during the next year from London.

It will possibly be remembered that a couple of years ago Mr. Alexander visited Portland, and expressed the opinion that all Portland required to make it a leading shipping port for Europe was terminal facilities. As soon as these were provided Portland would have no difficulty about securing steamers. Her location, her fine harbor, her railway facilities for loading and unloading, her low tonnage charges, her absence of port charges, all these were in her favor.

The prime requisite then to make Portland what she should be is terminal facilities. That is, sufficient wharf room, such as is enjoyed by the Grand Trunk, an elevator to hold the grain, and tracks so arranged that the cars can run right to the vessels. We are authorized in this statement that combinations are forming which, if carried out—and there now appears no reason why they should not be—will afford all those facilities and utilize the valuable Dry Dock property and surroundings, some forty acres in extent.

It is a known fact that the productions of our western States are increasing tremendously yearly. It is a fact that more business in shipping cargoes of grain, meats, and fine cattle is going on from Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York and Boston than ever before.

The other day a gentleman of large wealth and deeply interested in the railroad business of our Western States, as well as Canada, visited Portland and saw the advantages Portland possesses, as Mr. Alexander did before him. He also sees that the foreign trade of this country is still in its infancy; that the United States, and especially the west, has got to become the great feeder of a large portion of Europe. It is reported that the gentleman is one of the moving spirits in the new combination. At all events the intention of the interested parties is to transform the Dry Dock property into wharves, storage sheds, and a grand junction for the Boston & Maine, Eastern, and Portland and Ogdensburg railroads, with tracks to run along the wharves which it is proposed to construct there. An elevator will also form a part of the scheme, not a storage elevator like that of the Grand Trunk, but an elevator which will take this grain right from the cars and transfer it at once to the steamer or sailing vessel. The plan proposes that a vessel shall come to this port, go into Dry Dock if necessary, undergo repairs at once, pass out of the dock to this elevator, commence loading at 7 a. m. and at 6 p. m. have received her whole cargo, and be ready to sail the next day, the cars of the Boston & Maine, Eastern, and Ogdensburg furnishing the grain and the cattle—the latter being marched aboard the vessels as they arrive, or temporarily deposited in comfortable sheds close at hand. With present facilities so many vessels could not load fast enough at the Grand Trunk elevator, as that road would have about all she could do to take care of her own trade. A fast line of freight steamers will then run regularly between this port and Europe, and, as Mr. Alexander said, Portland will have no trouble in getting all the steamers she needs. The scheme is a grand one and we trust, from the character of the men interested in this combination, will be fully carried out. They are business men, not chimerical speculators, and have it in their power to carry out this plan in all its details. With the Grand Trunk facilities and those of the new company, Portland could compete with any port.

We also learn that there is a plan on foot, by the Union Wharf corporation, to construct an elevator on that wharf, which will accommodate some 250,000 bushels grain—the Grand Trunk contains 200,000 bushels. The accommodations for vessels at this wharf are excellent, there is a sufficient depth of water, and the elevator at present prices of lumber could be built for about $90,000. This matter, however, is entirely in embryo and nothing definite is decided on.

THE STATE STEAL.

Opinions of Portland Democrats.

A reporter for the PRESS visited several of the well known Portland Democrats yesterday to get their opinions on the State steal. They spoke as follows:

HON. WILLIAM L. PUTNAM.

Hon. W. L. Putnam said that if the morning papers yesterday correctly reported matters the Governor and Council have acted neither according to law nor justice. The clear course for them to have pursued was to have referred all questions of law of a novel character to the Supreme Court as provided for by the state constitution. The Supreme Court has always been non-partisan on these questions from the beginning of the state government to the present day, which non-partisanship has been expressly shown in the late mandamus hearing by Judge Virgin, who with two exceptions, is the newest comer from the Republican party on the bench. If from not consulting the Supreme Court, the Governor and Council have made serious mistakes the Democratic party, throughout the country, must bear the blame, although the Governor and Council in no sense represent the Democratic party, as a majority of the Council consists of men who never voted the Democratic ticket. If the action of the Governor and Council had been correctly reported yesterday morning, it is the duty of every citizen in the state of Maine, whatever his position on national matters, who desires henceforth fair dealings in the matter of elections, to unite with the Republican party in Maine for the purpose of crushing out this coalition which now controls the state government.

CHARLES F. SWETT.

Mr. Charles F. Swett, ex-councilman from ward four, and a member of the city committee, did not know anything about matters as far as the rest of the state was concerned, but knew that in Portland the four original candidates of the Republican party had been fairly elected. As for Mr. Verrill he was not so sure as he thought the Legislature should first declare a vacancy to be filled. He codsidered the depriving of the Republican candidates in Portland, of their certificates would work very injuriously to the Democratic party. He didn't believe there had been any more bribery, corruption and fraud on the one side than on the other. He believed in working hard, and by every honest means, to defeat your adversary, but when you are beaten yourself to gracefully accept the situation. He would have certificates issued to the Republican representatives before a single act was done by the legislature.

HON. L. D. M. SWEAT

was not prepared to speak as to the legality or illegality of the proceedings, as he had not given the matter especial attention. If the Governor and Council had gone by the constitution they were legally right. The statute of 1877 was merely a legislative act; it was not an amendment to the constitution which had been submitted to the people. He thought it a mean thing, however, to take away Portland's representatives when it was evident who had been elected.

EDMUND DANA

was not prepared to give an opinion until he knew, officially, who were counted in. He thought the Governor and Council would be guided entirely by the law. If men were counted out on technicalities surely the Republicans had furnished enough precedents. He didn't believe that the various cities would not have a representation in the legislature this winter. He thought all would be represented.

Fine Paintings.

The collection of paintings belonging to Mr. Charles J. Schumacher, to be offered at auction at F. O. Bailey & Co.'s auction rooms Thursday, at 10 a. m. and 2 p. m., is very fine. Among the artists represented are Harry Brown, W. E. Norton, Scott Leighton, J. B. Morse, J. T. Fletcher, E. R. Howe, William Schumacher and Chas. J. Schumacher. They will be on exhibition today.

MAINE STATE GRANGE.

The Sixth Annual Meeting of the Patrons of Husbandry.

The sixth annual meeting of the Maine State Grange of Patrons of Husbandry began at Congress Hall at 10 o'clock yesterday morning.

The meeting was called to order by D. H. Thing, Esq., of Mount Vernon, the Worthy Master.

The committee on credentials reported that sixty-two subordinate granges were represented by eighty-two voting members.

The Master then delivered his annual address, of which the following is an extract:

Brothers and Sisters of the State Grange of Maine:—The limited time at our disposal renders it necessary that the present session be one of deeds rather than words; and for this reason I shall not burden you with a lengthy address, for of all the productions of civilized humanity talk is cheapest and usually of the least worth. The occasion which calls us together is to me one of mingled joy and sadness. I rejoice to once more see your faces in the flesh, and to take your toil-hardened hands in mine with the grip of a Patron. I rejoice in the prosperity that has attended our labors as husbandmen, and also in the progres we have made as an order, and yet it is with a feeling of sadness that I contemplate the vast amount of important and necessary work which yet remains undone.

Perhaps the first thought suggested to the mind of the uninitiated by the word "Grange" is that of co-operation and the first result expected is pecuniary gain, but when this subject is discussed in detail we find that hardly two can be found who agree as to modes and methods, though all agree as to desired results. Co-operation is simply a united effort to accomplish what individual effort has failed to realize, and the first condition of success, is that there be an earnest, honest, unselfish union of effort to realize to a certain definite result. With these conditions and purposes, and with that perseverance which knows no such word as fail, success is sure in whatever direction we choose to labor. The theory of co-operation that looks to practical results means intelligent, earnest, painstaking labor.

Fire and life insurance agents care not how much we talk of Patrons' insurance companies and mutual aid societies so long as we allow them to gather our dollars at their pleasure, although it takes seventy-four per cent of their receipts to pay their running expenses. Politicians care not how much we may declaim of our independence and our determination to act in the interest of our own class and organization so long as we yield abject homage to the sceptre of King Caucus and vote for party in disregard of the interest of the corporation. It does not perhaps become me to speak, for the reason that the very able and earnest board of directors will set forth its standing, business, necessities and claims with much more force and authority than any one who has not personally borne the burden could possibly do. While we shall most surely claim that the order in our state is the chief support of the corporation, yet we at the same time cheerfully accord to the corporation the place of honor as one of the strong pillars upon which the order rests.

One or the chief duties of a well conducted grange will be to see to it that the children in the circle of its influence have the opportunity to obtain a suitable education. The education of the grange will be, as it ought, practical. Ours is a practical organization. Farmers are practical men, farming is a practical business, and to succeed we must have a practical education.

Farmers are a majority of all the voters, yet they complain that their wishes are disregarded, that they suffer from unjust discrimination, that their class is unrepresented in law making bodies, and of other disabilities. I do not propose to discuss the justice or injustice of these complaints, but simply wish to call your attention to the fact that right here is where we may put in practice the true principles of co-operation. Let farmers all go into the grange, discuss their circumstances, examine into their causes, remove their own disabilities as far as possible, get an intelligent idea of their wants, agree how, they shall be supplied, step together ballot in hand and the thing is done.

The rest of the address consisted of a plea in favor of the Dirigo Rural as a state organ and a brief notice of the proceedings of the National Grange.

The grange met again at 3 o'clock p. m. The principal business was the appointment of committees.

The Patrons' co-operative corporation held sessions at 9 and at 1.30 o'clock.

MUSIC AND THE DRAMA.

JARLEY'S WAX WORKS.

The "pet of the nobility and gentry" displayed three "wax figgers" last night, at Portland Theatre, to a very large and of course aristocratic audience, who were kept in a convulsive state by her fund of wit and humor. The old lady stated on her arrival she was pleased to learn that our collector was a lot moral, and she despised the use of hacks or cabs to carry her to the hotel for she had learned that we were a great pedestrian city and our mayor a capital Walker. She then proceeded to describe her "figgers," which were divided into three chambers—historical, comical and classical. All of the costumes were very elegant and the characters exceedingly well taken.

The evening's entertainment commenced with the bright and sparkling comedietta "Two Flats and a Sharp," most ably performed. The stage set in this play was exceedingly artistic and pretty.

THE CALIFORNIA MINSTRELS.

Music Hall was packed last night to see the California Minstrels, and the entertainment was first-class. There was not a single poor act, or song, from the opening drawing-room entertainment to the awfully funny farce of "No Pinafore" which closed the performance. It is hardly fair to particularize where all was so good, but Cool Burgess and John Henshaw were just a touch ahead. The company ought to come again.

PULPIT AND PLATFORM.

A SWELL LECTURE.

Prof Morse while in Japan was commanded to deliver a lecture on Evolution to members of the Royal Family and the court. A thousand dollars were expended in fitting up the hall and the buildings for servants, horses, &c. A translator repeated in Japanese what the Professor said in English. His royal audience listened patiently while he told them that they were evolved from lower animals; their religion teaches them they came from the sun. The lecture was reported in a Japanese newspaper and glowing eulogies were pronounced on the great Professor and his learned audience.

Our readers are reminded that the Professor lectures to-night at City Hall before the Society of Natural History.

CHAPLAIN MCCABE.

Of Chaplain McCabe who lectures in City Hall to-morrow night on "The bright side of life in Libby prison," it is said that he is a humorist, an orator and a forcible and pleasing speaker, having the power to carry his hearers from uproarious laughter into tears of sympathy and sorrow, then, filling them with patriotism and love of country, will bring forth an involuntary outburst of cheers from his audience over a beautiful and eloquent reference to some historic deed, the recollections of which well up in every patriotic heart and find common response from every lip.

New Church Organ.

Last Friday evening quite a large company of ladies and gentlemen met by invitation at the organ manufactory, corner of North Grove and Cambridge streets, Boston, to hear and examine an organ just completed for the Williston Congregational church of this city. Mr. Wm. H. Clarke, one of Boston's most accomplished organists, presided, and for more than two hours interested and delighted the very critical audience, composed mainly of the musical and scientific people of Boston and Cambridge, prominent among whom we noticed Mr. John W. Tufts, organist of King's chapel, and Mr. S. B. Whitney, organist of the Church of the Advent, Boston.

At the close of the concert many of the gentlemen present availed themselves of the opportunity to examine the interior of the instrument, and after an hour thus spent pronounced it one of the finest organs in point of workmanship and material they had ever seen, and all heartily concurred in the opinion that the voicing of the various stops, each perfect in itself, formed one of the sonorous, grand, full organ entirely free from harshness, and that the builders, Messrs. Hutchings, Plaisted & Co., had done themselves great honor and the church for which it was built a valuable service in the production of this beautiful instrument. The organs contains twenty-three speaking stops with the usual mechanical registers and pedals.

We understand that it is possible that Mr. Clarke, the organist of the evening, may give a concert after the instrument is completed in the church.

Accidents.

A little boy while trying to crawl between two cars on Commercial street yesterday afternoon was badly jammed.

A boy named Palmer slipped upon the icy sidewalk on Congress street yesterday afternoon and severely bruised his head and face.

Personal.

Messrs. H. F. Furbish and H. Deering have been nominated by its president for membership of the Natural History Society.

The Gallia, of the Cunard Line, arrived in New York yesterday morning. Mr. Stanley T. Pullen, editor of the PRESS, was a passenger.

Colonel Bob Ingersoll on the Maine Law.

In a Western paper I find a report of an argument to the jury in a liquor case by Colonel Ingersoll, in the United States Court. Col. Ingersoll is a stalwart Republican and one of the ablest men in the country. I send you an extract from his speech, and am sure that a great many of your readers will be deeply interested in it. N. D.

The Colonel was lately employed in a case which related to the distilling business, and in his speech to the jury he said:

"I am aware there is a prejudice against any man engaged in the liquor business. I believe from the time it issues from the coiled and poisonous worm in the distillery until it empties into the hell of death, dishonor and crime that alcohol is demoralizing to everybody that touches it, from its source to where it ends. I do not not believe anybody can contemplate the subject without being prejudiced against the crime. All we have to do is to think of the wrecks on either side of the stream of death, of the suicides, of the insanity, of the poverty, pauperism and destruction coming from alcohol; of the little children tugging at the breast of weeping, despairing, starving mothers begging for bread; of the men of genius it has wrecked, of the men struggling with imaginary serpents produced by this devilish thing; and when we think of the jails and almshouses, of the asylums, of the prisons and of the scaffolds on either bank, I do not wonder that every thoughtful man is prejudiced against the vile stuff called alcohol.

"Intemperance cuts down youth in its vigor, manhood in its strength, and age in its weakness. It breaks the father's heart, bereaves the doting mother, extinguishes natural affection, destroys conjugal love, blots out filial attachments, blights paternal hope, and brings premature age in sorrow and dishonor to the grave. It produces weakness, not strength; sickness, not health; death, not life. It makes wives widows; children orphans; fathers fiends and all paupers. It feeds rheumatism, nurses gout, welcomes epidemics, invites cholera, imports pestilence, engenders consumption and covers the land with idleness, misery and crime. It produces controversies, fosters quarrels, cherishes riots. It crowds our penitentiaries and furnishes victims for the scaffold.

"Alcohol is the blood of the gambler, the inspiration of the burglar, the stimulus of the highwayman, and the support of the midnight incendiary. It suggests the lie and countenances the liar, condones the thief, esteems the blasphemer. It violates obligations, reverences fraud, turns love to hate, scorns virtue and innocence. It incites the father to butcher his helpless offspring, and the child to sharpen the parricidal axe.

"Alcohol burns up men, consumes women, destroys life, curses God and despises heaven. It suborns witnesses, nurses perfidy, defiles the jury box and stains the judicial ermine. It bribes voters, disqualifies votes, corrupts elections, pollutes our institutions and endangers the government. It degrades the citizen, debases the legislator, dishonors the statesmen and disarms the patriot. It brings shame, not honor; terror, not safety; despair, not hope; misery, not happiness; and with the malevolence of a fiend calmly surveys its frightful desolation; and revelling in havoc, it poisons felicity, destroys peace, ruins morals, wipes out national honor, curses the world and laughs at the ruin it has wrought. It does that and more—it murders the soul. It is the sum of all villainies, the father of all crimes, the mother of all abominations, the devil's best friend and God's worst enemy."

Fine Engravings.

At Hale's gallery may be seen a superb collection of engravings and etchings, many of them of rare value and antiquity, after the first masters. There are 359 subjects, embracing many pictures that are world famous. The etchings are very fine; in fact an art lover can spend hours in the gallery to advantage.

Mrs. Elizabeth Murray displays one of her charming water-colors entitled "The Apple Girl." It represents a very pretty blonde maiden who offers her customers apples with a most bewitching smile.

Correction.

The statement that King & Hall, of Oxford, have sold out to King & Holmes, published recently in our list of business changes, is an error. The fact is that King & Hall dissolved the first of May, and since then the business has been carried on by Silas E. King.

RAILROAD ACCIDENT.—The express car on the Pullman train from Boston last night broke down while the train was coming round the Y. The freight had to be transferred and the train was delayed twenty minutes in consequence.

Business Notes.

The Boston Journal of Commerce says that the salary of Mr. Howe, who will assume the position of agent for the Pepperell and Laconia Corporation at Biddeford, on the 1st of January, is $10,000 a year.

Business in the Norway shoe factory is rushing and bids fair to be more so. The great number of new hands employed hinders the filling of orders as fast as desired; but this difficulty is every day growing less.

C. M. Bailey of Winthrop is running his oil cloth factories to their fullest capacity, also the Winthrop mills factory, and the Whitmans have large orders ahead, and business on the street seems to be very lively.

STATE NEWS.

ANDROSCOGGIN COUNTY.

A terrier dog, owned by Mr. H. S. Lane of Prospect Hill, Auburn, was bitten by the rabid dog that was recently killed at Barker Mills. The terrier gave no indications of illness until Sunday, when he suddenly struck a bee line for a tree and commenced to bite it savagely. The dog then turned around and attacked the horse, making various attempts to devour it. Mr. Lane killed the dog at once before he had done any mischief.

CUMBERLAND COUNTY.

The boating association of Bowdoin College held a meeting Monday, and voted to instruct its Secretary to correspond with Columbia, Cornell and Wesleyan, to see if they will permit Bowdoin to enter the race agreed upon among themselves. There is great interest in boating there, and good prospect of a race with the above named colleges. Eight men will go into the gymnasium immediately, to train for the race. Senior and Junior exhibition will take place next Thursday.

OXFORD COUNTY.

A few days since a man who gave the name of George Durgin and hailed from Limerick came to the house of Rev. John Stanley at South Hiram. He was the most pitiful looking object that human eyes ever be held. He had been out in the cold storm all night without the least shelter from the cold raw winds. He is a man 54 years old and has been more or less subject to fits for the last fifteen years. His clothing was completely drenched, and when he came to Mr. Stanley's, he was bare-headed, having his cap and boots under his arm, one foot bare. His feet and hands were badly frozen, and during the time he was out he had cut and mangled his feet, legs and one wrist in a most shocking and sickening manner. There were 28 gashes in his feet and legs, some of them long and deep, leaving the bone exposed. One of his wrists was cut across to the bone, just grazing the main artery of the arm. These cuts he no doubt inflicted with his jack-knife. He is in a very critical condition.

Bryant's Pond has voted to erect a building 125 feet long by 42 feet and two stories high, for the use of Capt. Dearborn, as a spool mill. Capt. Dearborn, on his part, agreed to bring his spool works to Bryant's Pond, and occupy the building erected by the town.

PENOBSCOT COUNTY.

Last Saturday Harry Davis of Eddington Bend met with a serious accident while out gunning. He was trailing his gun when the piece was discharged, the shot taking effect in his arm, breaking one of the bones. The wound was properly dressed and it is thought the arm will be saved.

SOMERSET COUNTY.

Nine years ago three routes were surveyed for a railroad to Athens, one leading from Hartland and two from Skowhegan, respectively, via Cornville and East Madison. The project has slumbered, but now is revived by the suggestion of a cheap narrow gauge, to cost only a nominal sum.

AGRICULTURAL.

What the Deed Includes.

A lawyer says that everyone knows that a deed of a farm includes, for one thing, all the fences standing on a farm, but not every one might think it also included all the fencing stuff, posts and the like, which had once been used in the fence, but had been taken down and piled up for future use again on the same place. But new fencing material, just bought, and never attached to the soil, would not pass. So piles of hop-poles stored away, if once used on the land, have been considered a part of it. But loose boards or scaffold poles laid across the beams of the barn and never fastened to them, would not be; and the seller of the farm might take them away. Standing trees, of course, also pass for part of the land; so do trees blown down and left in the woods where they fell, but not if cut and corded up for sale; the wood then becomes personal property.

If there be any manure in the barnyard, or in a compost heap in the field, ready for immediate use, the buyer usually takes that also, as belonging to the farm, though it might not be so if the owner had previously sold it to some other party and collected it together in a heap by itself. Growing crops also pass the deed of a farm, unless they are expressly reserved; and when it is not intended to convey them, it should be so stated in the deed itself; a mere oral agreement to that effect would not be valid in law. Another mode is to stipulate that possession is not to be given until some future day, in which case the crops or manure may be removed before that time.

As to the buildings on the farm, though usually mentioned in the deed, it is not necessary they should be. A deed of land ordinarily carries all the buildings on it belonging to the grantor, whether mentioned or not; and this rule includes the lumber and timber of any old building which has been taken down or blown down and packed away for future use on the farm.

But if there be any buildings on the farm built by a third person, with the farmer's leave, the deed would not convey these, for such buildings are personal property, and do not belong to the land owner to convey. The real owners thereof might move them off, although the purchaser of the farm supposed he was buying and paying for all the buildings on it. His only remedy in such a case would be against the party selling the premises. As part of the buildings conveyed of course the window blinds are included, even if they be at the time taken off and carried to a painter's shop to be painted.

It would be otherwise if they had been purchased and brought into the house, but not yet attached or fitted to it. Lightning rods also go with the house, if a farmer has any on his house. A furnace in the cellar, whether brick or portable, is considered part of the house, but an ordinary stove with a loose pipe running into the chimney is not, while a range set up in brick work is. Mantlepieces so attached to the chimney as not to be moved without marring the plastering, go with the house, but if merely resting on brackets, they may be carried away by the former owner without legal liability. The pumps and sinks fastened to a building are a part of it in law, and so are the waterpipes connected therewith, bringing water from a distant spring. If the farmer has iron kettles set in brick-work near his barn for cooking food for stock, or similar purposes, the deed of his farm covers them also, as likewise a bell attached to his barn to call his men to dinner. If he indulges in ornamental statues and vases resting on the ground by their own weight merely, and sells his estate without reservation, these things go with the land.

Sugar in Aroostook.

The question of sugar production in Aroostook county is so dependent upon the success of the season's work among the beets which are now accumulating at the works in Portland, that we note with deep interest all that is said about the growth of the beets and the progress of the sugar making at the factory. It is gratifying to know that suitable painstaking in the handling of the beets produced even this last season a bountiful return in the tons per acre. It seems now to be an established fact that if one gives the beets the same culture as corn, he will not fail to receive adequate returns for all his labor and care. The farmers in the 'Sugar belt" will do well to keep right along in the raising of the beets, and not for a moment consider the expediency of the movement as settled one way or the other, until at least a five years' trial has been made. We are sorry to note so desponding and doubtful a tone prevalent in the editorial columns of the Farmer, in the issue of the 15th ult., for we fear its effect upon both farmers and the company alike. The statement about the refuse pulp and lime are rather surprising to us outsiders. Instead of a ready demand for it, according to its intrinsic worth, we now undestand that it accumulates at the factory to such a degree as to threaten the failure of the enterprise. So high an estimate of the value of beets for feed is so almost universally entertained, that the wonder is, that any and every feeder of cattle within reasonable distance of the works does not readily take the refuse, at the low price put upon it. Unless there is some mistake in the figures about the cost of a factory for the raw sugar, Aroostook county may as well give up all notion of raising the sugar beets. Still it seems apparent to us here that with a large central establishment in successful operation, where many of the preliminary steps might be taken, such as the manufacture of the bone black, lime, etc., the investment necessary for the production of the raw sugar might be brought down to a reasonable figure. The establishments for making the raw cane sugar, which we have visited in Louisiana, seem thoroughly suited to their work, and without extravagant outlay. The article contributed to the columns of the Farmer some little time ago by Mr. John Sparrow was very practical in its statements, and the allusion to co-operation among the German farmers and the use of frozen beets, are or much importance to dwellers outside the present "belt" of sugar production.—Francis Barnes, in Maine Farmer.

COLOGNE WATER.

Desolve one fluid drachm each of the oils of lavender, bergamot and orange, with half a drachm of neroli and a pint of rectified spirits. Cork the bottle tight and shake it frequently. In the course of a few weeks this will be very good, but to make a superior article use the following formula:

Mix one drachm each of the oils of lavender, bergamot and rosemary, two of the oil of lemon, half a drachm of neroli, a drachm of orange flower water, ten drops of the essence of musk and five of the oil of cinnamon with a pint of rectified spirits. Cork and shake frequently; it will be better to stand two or three months before using.

SACHET POWDER.

An excellent powder for scent bags, to be used in wardrobes, boxes, etc., may be made by mixing the following ingredients, all of which must first be reduced to a coarse powder:

Two ounces of lavender flowers, one each of calamus and orris roots, rose leaves and coriander; a quarter of a drachm each of mace and cinnamon and five grains of musk.

LOTION OF BORAX.

Mix three drachms of powdered borax, three-quarters of an ounce of glycerine, two ounces of rose or orange flower water and half a pint of filtered rain water. Apply two or three times daily as a wash for excoriations, chaps and sun-burn.

LOTION OF LEMON JUICE.

Fresh lemon juice, rose-water and rectified spirits, equal parts. Add a small portion of pulverized borax and let stand for twenty-four hours. Strain the clear liquid through muslin and use for discolorations and irritability of the skin.

CAMPHOR BALLS.

Two ounces each of spermaceti and white wax, melted together by gentle heat, with a quarter of a pint of almond or olive oil. Add an ounce of pulverized camphor gum and stir until dissolved and nearly cooled, then pour into warm moulds and apply to the skin; previously washed clean and wiped dry, preferably at bed time.

TOOTH POWDER.

Mix a quarter of an ounce of pulverized castile soap and half an ounce each of powered borax and gum camphor with an ounce of prepared chalk and half an ounce of fine arrowroot.

SHAMPOOING LIQUID.

Dissolve two ounces of castile soap and one of powdered borax in a quart of rain-water, and bottle for use.

Domestic Receipts.

POTATO CROQUET.

One pound mashed potatoes; one egg; one tablespoonful of milk; a little pepper and salt; a few spoonfuls of bread crumbs and cracker dust. The potatoes must be mashed when thoroughly dry. When mashed throw in a small quantity of salt, a tablespoonful of milk, a little pepper and the yolk of an egg. Stir the yolk with the potatoes over a fire till thoroughly dry. Flour the board well, take a little of the mashed potatoes and roll lightly in the flour, make them into any shape. When the croquet is well formed, beat well up the white of an egg- roll the croquet in it; throw over all a little bread crumb or cracker dust.

REAL ESTATE.

The Growing Town of Deering

OFFERS many attractions as a place of residence, and is of easy access by steam and horse cars. The schools are excellent, the churches are well situated, the streets are finely located for drainage, and good sidewalks are built as property is improved. Its rapid growth during the last few years demonstrates that Deering is a first-class place for a suburban residence. I have for sale in desirable locations several houses, built during the late dull times when all material was cheap, which will be sold correspondingly low. I also have for sale lands in various parts of the town which will be sold in lots to suit, and will furnish land and lumber on long time in easy payments, and will contract to build houses ready for occupancy.

Any party desiring to buy, sell, let or hire any suburban property will do well to give me a call.

HAWAIIAN

CATARRH REMEDY!

A Disagreeable Disease Avoided and Cured by its Use.

The receipt for making this WONDERFUL REMEDY was obtained by James J. Peavy, while living in Honolulu, Hawaiian Island, where he resided for more than twelve years.

Mr. Peavy, at that time, was suffering from catarrh, and with many doubts as to the curative properties of this remedy, he compounded a small quantity, and began to use as directed. To his surprise and joy he found relief after the first trial, and in a short time he was entirely cured.

Mr. Peavy afterwards put this remedy up in small quantities and sold and gave it away to his friends; but not until recently has he consented to have it prepared and thoroughly introduced to the world.

It is a sure relief and cure for Catarrh in its worst forms.

One trial of the remedy is its best testimonial. Sure relief is within the reach of all who are willing to give it a single trial.

It is harmless, convenient to take at any time, and its good effects are sure to be felt as soon as the remedy is applied.

This is entirely different from any other snuff on the market, as every particle is dissolved as soon as it comes in contact with the delicate membranous coatings that line the nasal passages, acting as it does directly upon the mucous membrane.
